Communication Analysis for Law Enforcement

When: May 26, 2010
Times: 8:30 AM – 5:00 PM
Where: Western Campus, Wake Tech
3434 Kildaire Farm Rd
Cary, NC 27518

Communication Analysis is the process of critical listening or critical reading for the purpose of identifying sensitive, deceptive or missing information. Communication Analysis is a tool used by Law Enforcement to evaluate data and identify a person's linguistic code. We will talk about Evasive Verbal Techniques and Body Language techniques that will help us determine when someone is being deceptive.

Increase your Critical Thinking and Critical Listening Skills

Know the meaning behind the words people use

Gain greater insight into verbal communication

Understand how information can deceive you

Develop better questioning skills

Instructor: Joelle Fisher from the National Drug Intelligence Center gives this instruction to federal, state and local officers and analysts across the U.S. She is a regular “guest” instructor at the DEA/FBI Training Academies at Quantico, Virginia. This class is consistently rated as one of the best available on the topic.

Enrollment: There is no enrollment or registration fee for this course. This course is open to federal, state, and local agents, investigators, uniformed officers and Intelligence Analysts.
